Then, the front desk staff will either call or send an email message to the appropriate addressee, which should be the same as the PO originator unless otherwise specified, identified on the package mailing label. If included, a packing slip should be reviewed. An actual count of goods is required, if quantity order. The quantity should be matched against the purchase order quantity, packing list and bill of lading, if applicable. The receiver must inspect for damage, and identify any non-conforming goods
- 15. To document the review and inspection, the PO originator or designee must complete and sign a Receiving Report form on the same day that the merchandise is delivered.
- 16. The original signed Receiving Report form, along with original packing slip if included, must be forwarded to the Business Office no later than one (1) business day following receipt of order. The originator should retain a copy of these documents for their files.

Service contracts or agreements that require the vendor (service provider) to provide reports, statistics, or recommendations must be specified in the purchase order or contract. Service contracts which require the performance of a particular service (example: carpet cleaning, automobile maintenance) must specifically itemize and describe all tasks. Verification process requires matching the task completion with the description on the approved purchase order form.

LOSS or DAMAGE IN SHIPMENT

- 22. The responsibility for filing claims for loss or damage to goods or merchandise in shipment is with the purchase order originator, or department, after notice to the Business Office Administrator. If goods are shipped FOB DESTINATON, the title remains with the vendor until the goods are received and accepted by the ordering department or College.
- 23. If merchandise is shipped FOB SHIPPING POINT, the title passes immediately when the goods are given to a common carrier (Ex: Federal Express, United Parcel Service) at the time of shipment. As a result, the department and College are responsible for any and all damages or losses when the goods are in transit. If damages occur to merchandise in shipment, it is the responsibility of the originator or ordering department to file a claim.

OBVIOUS LOSS OR DAMAGE

24. FOB DESTINATION: The front desk receiving staff must document all obvious losses or damages on receiving papers, sign and have the carrier driver sign. Write the word "Refused" on receiving documents. Employees should never accept damaged packages or containers from a carrier under any circumstances. When damage is obvious to the packaging, the College's receiving staff will refuse the order when it is delivered.

25. FOB SHIPPING POINT: The front desk receiving staff should document all losses or damage on receiving papers, sign and have driver sign. All merchandise should be retained in the condition in which it was received. The originator or ordering department is responsible for notifying both the carrier and vendor in writing and by telephone within five (5) working days. A copy of this written notification shall be forwarded to the Business Office.

CONCEALED DAMAGE OR LOSS

- 26. FOB DESTINATION: If the damage becomes evident when unpacking, the originator/receiver should stop the unpacking; retain all merchandise and package(s) in exactly the same condition as received. The receiver is responsible for notifying the vendor immediately in writing and by telephone. A copy of the written notice must be forwarded to the Business Office. Damaged goods or materials should not be used and packaging materials retained.
- 27. FOB SHIPPING POINT: The same procedure as described in item 23 applies. In addition the originator or ordering department must promptly notify and file a claim with the common carrier, within Interstate Commerce Commission guidelines. The Business Office shall be notified, copied, and involved in the claim processing.

VARIANCE WITH PURCHASE ORDER DESCRIPTION

- 28. Occasionally, unforeseen conditions occur with vendors that cause delivered items to be different from those originally quoted and awarded. Shipments must be inspected immediately or difficulties may occur in obtaining a refund, credit or returning the merchandise. In any event, do not sign for any shortage, but rather insist on a correction of the packing slip. After corrections are made, request that the driver, if applicable, sign all shipping documents before leaving.
- 29. Employees are not authorized to accept or approve any alternate or substitution from description on the Purchase Order form without approval of the Business Office Administrator or designee.

The Business Office Administrator is responsible for implementation, interpretation, and review of the Ordering and Receiving procedures. Failure to comply with these ordering or receiving procedures may result in the departmental or individual employee loss or suspension of purchasing privileges, as well as other appropriate corrective action.
